Welcome

Windswept, wet and wondering which way up the map goes: the Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme provides all kinds of challenges. When we think of the D of E, we tend to think of expeditions – of days spent exploring the mountains, valleys and pathways of our countryside. Those expeditions require teamwork, problem solving, and the ability to keep going when stopping seems a far more attractive option. However, it's not just physical endurance that is required to be successful. The other elements of the award are testing too: they take staying power, perseverance, and dedication. They test students' "people skills"; they require initiative and independence.

In other words, success in the Duke of Edinburgh's award scheme is hard-earned. It's not easy! It is, therefore, a real pleasure to spend some time this evening celebrating those of our students who have risen to the challenge.

Mr Jefferies
Headteacher

The DofE awards is always a proud moment for me as the DofE Manager here at Bournside school: an evening where we, the school can celebrate pupils' achievement at all levels of the award but also recognise the efforts that staff and volunteers have made to ensure the scheme is so successful.

We want to recognise students achievements this evening; highlighting the commitment, dedication, teamwork, and leadership they have shown in completing their award. All attributes that will shape their lives as they move forward in life.

Mr Fenton-Musty
Duke of Edinburgh Manager

Guest Speakers

Rachel Smith, Alumni

I'm Rachel and I'm 20 years old. I completed Bronze (2017), Silver (2018), and Gold (2021) DofE awards at Bournside school. I volunteered with a Cubs group, took singing lessons, and exercised my way through quarantine with Joe Wicks. I passed my A-levels with an A in Geography and Bs in Biology and Drama, and I am currently in the final year of my Zoology degree at Swansea University. In October this year I undertook a research trip to Malaysian Borneo to study the ecology and conservation of everything from Orangutans to Clownfish.

Paul Webb, H5 Adventure

I have worked in the Outdoor Activity Industry for over 25 years, from Charity, LEA and Commercial Activity Providers. I formed H5 Adventure in 2006 and it continues to offer Safe & Fun Experiences for young people. The Duke of Edinburgh Expeditions is at the forefront of what we offer, across all levels of the Awards, Bronze, Silver & Gold. Trekking in Expeditions in local areas to schools, to Wild Country areas of Dartmoor, Brecon Beacons and further afield.
